HUMAN ALARM CLOCK.

Route for Rousing People. There is a man on the North Side, Chicago, who has built up a novel business. It can't se said that he is growing rich at it, but he makes a good living and his hours of work are short. His work is to awaken the newspaper car riers, so that they can get down town to lay n their supplies and deliver the papers to their customers before the breakfast hour. To get their supplies in time says the Chicago Tribune, many of the car-riers have to start down town between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning. The paper are ready shortly after 3 o'clock, and to get his supplies early the carrier must be on hand so as to get his order registered with the delivery clerk, for, to avoid trouble, carriers are supplied with papers in the order i which they have given their orders. The carrier doesn't want to stay up all light just so that he can leave the house at 2:30 o'clock in the morning. He wants to

2.30 o clock in the morning. He wants to sleep in the evening, so that when he gets up he can stay up for the balance of the day. And so, in the old days, he went to sleep, trusting to habit and his alarm clock to waken him. But human nature is weak, and after get ing accustomed to its clamor a man will frequently sleep peacefully through the racket made by an alarm clock. Many times carriers have learned this to their sorrow and have opened their eyes only to find that it was broad daylight, and that their work should have been half done instead of unbe-What they wanted was a sentient alarm clock—one that would ring just long enough to waken them and would not stop until they were awake; one that would arouse them every if they forgot to wind and set it before they went to sleep. But the jewelers don't keep alarm clocks of that pattern. So the newspaper carriers set their wits to work to find another scheme. One of them decided to have one of his assistants wake him. That put all the blame for oversleeping upon the assistant. After a few days the assistant was told to call another carrier—a friend of the first one—while on his way to arouse his employer.

ployer. That put an idea into the assistant's head. Why not make some money by calling carriers? That day he visited a dozen of them living near him and asked if they would pay him 50 cents a week for being aroused promptly on time. Taught by long experlence with an alarm clock, they said they would gladly. In a few days the story of the new scheme had spread among the carriers, and the young man was flooded with orders from men who wanted to get up in the middle of the night. He accepted all the orders he could. and arranged a regular time table, by which he visited his patrons. More orders came in. and he found himself unable to get around fast enough on foot. Then he went to the stock yards and bought a saddle horse, one of the mustang breed—not handsome, but speedy and enduring. Within a month his income as an alarm clock was greater than his pay as a news-paper carrier. Then he remembered that other people had to get up early, among them street car conductors and drivers. Re-car barns, and soon had a score of men on his list. Now, every night, from 1 o'clock until 6 in the morning, the young man gallops about the streets of Lakeview. In his hand he carries a loaded stick, and with this he bom-bards the doors of his patrons, and doesn't stop until he sees a light and hears the sleepy reply of the inmates. Half an hour after he has passed his course can be traced by the line of carriers' wagons, drawn by sleepy horses and driven by sleepy men, all headed for the newspaper offices in the down-signing his job as carrier, he canvassed the

ANTE ROOM ECHOES

During the present week, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the twenty-ninth annual session of the grand lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars will conveys at Lincoln. At the last session Albion was named as the place for holding the session of this year, but because of the fact that the district court would be in session in that city during the week and consequently hotel accommodiations could not be provided for the delegates to the grand lodge session, the place of meeting was changed to Lincoln at the request of the citizens of Albion.

While it is not expected that there will be much business of any importance that will come up for consideration during the session, it is expected that the delegates will have an interesting and enjoyable meeting. Right Worthy Grand Templar of the World D. H. Munn, and Grand Secretary Perry Perb. H. Munn, and Grand Secretary Perry Perkins of Iowa and other leading lights of the order will be present and will deliver addresses. The Lincoln members of the order have made all arrangements to see that the delegates will be amply taken care of and entertained when they are not occupied with the business of the session.

There will be between 125 and 150 delegates in attendance. Of these there will be four from Omaha, two from each of the local lodges. Hopeful lodge will be represented by Lee Forby and George L. Fisher, and Anchor by T. L. Coombs and R. L. Balley.

Next week the annual sessions of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be held in this city, commencing on Tuesday and continuing for two days. The body consists of the state lodge, the state grand encamp-ment and the state grand assembly of the Rebekahs. As there will be a considerable number of delegates in attendance the local members of the order are making prepara-tions for their recention and apparationable. tions for their reception and entertainment on a large scale. Among the features of the session will be a banquet and a parade. The meetings will be held in the new Creighton hall and some of them promise to be warm ones, especially the one at which the election of officers of the state lodge takes place.

The occasion was made a very enjoyable one, the exercises occurring a very enjoyable one, the exercises occurring in Germania hall. Speeches were made by a number of grand officers, among them being J. C. Root, C. C. Farmer, J. T. Yates and Dr. Rodgers. The affair wound up with a very enjoyable supper.

On October 27 the newly organized uniformed corps of Montifiore camp No. 82, Pioneer corps No. 2, will give an entertainment in Germania hall. On Thursday night after the meetings of Alpha camp and Golden Rod Grove, Woodmen of the World, the members of the two lodges met in the hall of the former and spent several hours very enjoyably, the principal portion of the program consisting of cipal portion of the program consisting of dancing. There was a large crowd in attendance. A dance was given last Monday evening in Myrtle hail, Continental block, by Social lodge No. 102, Degree of Honor, Ancient Order of United Workmen. The dancing program was excellent and held the guests until a late hour. The entertainment was appropriately closed by an excellent supper which was served by the women of the late.

The hall was crowded with representatives from all the lodges of this city, South Omaga and Council Bluffs. A very entertaining program was rendered, some of the features of which were speeches by a number of the hosts and guests. Omaha lodge No. 18, Ancient Order United Workmen, has passed the following resolu-tions on the death of a member, Richard T. Allen: In the death of Brother Allen we realize how uncertain are the things of this featize how uncertain are the things of this life; and we pray that our heavenly Father who has taken our brother unto Himself, will comfort and cheer those who are left to mourn his untimely end.

When the soul of Prof. R. T. Allen, at Buffalo, on Sunday, September 1, 1895, took its flight, the musical world lost a brilliant light. But few attain such heights in musical lore, possessing in a marked degree such a store of information as to render him a most interesting man, and it was due to his exquisitely fine characteristics that he was a most companionable man.

Richard T. Allen was a lover of his home,

n which nothing had ever occurred to mar

There is a degree of comfort in the thought that although the ending of his life was so sad, Brother Allen was not responsible for it. Brother Allen's place as a member of our lodge will be one difficult to fill. As a musician he was always willing and always cheerfully rendered such aid as few could equal. When we gather at our meetings we shall view with sorrow the instrument upon which its peace and tranquillity.

he so often performed to the delight of us all. It is hereby Resolved, That we extend to the family of our deceased brother our sincere sympathy, at this the time of their sad bereavement, and pray that "He who doeth all things well" will bring comfort and aid to those burdened with sorrow. It is further Resolved, That our charter and plane be draped for the period of thirty days; that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of the deceased, and spread upon our records, and that the same be published in The Omaha Bee, Western Workman and Omaha World-Herald.

Jumped Out of the Bag. Sometimes a "mommer" is a great comfort and help to a prima donna and-sometimes she isn't. There is a young lady now singing st a prominent theater in this city, says the New York Herald, who has a "mommer" who always travels with her, who thinks that the sun rises and sets over her head and who believes that Melba and Calve aren't in the same class with her-well, we'll call her Sellie because that isn't a bit like her name nor any other prima donna's. The other evening Sallie made her debut in a new opera, and in the lobby of the theater all evening there stood a tremendous basket of roses directed to her in a big, bold hand—as big and as bold a hand as the florist could muster. Just before the curtain fell on the last act the basket was carried around by two ushers into Sallie's dressing room, and there, after the last call had been answered, the whole cast gathered around to admire it and wonder who sent it. Sallie's "mommer" looked it over in evident astonishment.

"Well, well!" she exclaimed, "I never thought it would be that big." Reasoning Power of Robins.

A robin's nest and a kingbird's nest were situated in adjoining trees, each containing young birds. When the kingbirds saw the robin bringing a worm to feed its young they would attack it and make it give up the food intended for the young robins. After being robbed a few times the robin appeared with a worm, accompanied by two other robbins, and when the kingbird made his ap-pearance the two extra robins pitched in and
